DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. The claim amendments still fail to overcome the 101 issue. The steps of associating nodes, aligning nodes, and providing are not “tied to” a particular machine. These steps are considered mental steps, which can be performed by a human being. Specifically, a person can draw dependency trees having associated nodes on a particular computer application such as Microsoft Office or Notepad. Correspondences between nodes of the dependency trees can be indicated by drawing links. The alignment can be shown on the computer screen.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

2. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

3. Claims 1-41 and 55-68 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

4. Claims 1-41 and 55-68 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 as not falling within one of the four statutory categories of invention. While the claims recite a series of steps or acts to be performed, a statutory “process” under 35 U.S.C. 101 must (1) be tied to another statutory category (such as a particular apparatus), or (2) transform underlying subject matter (such as an article or material) to a different state or thing (Reference the May 15, 2008 memorandum issued by Deputy Commissioner for Patent Examining

Art Unit: 2626

Policy, John J. Love, titled "Clarification of 'Processes' under 35 U.S.C. 101" – publicly available at USPTO.GOV, "memorandum to examining corps"). The instant claims neither transform underlying subject matter nor positively tie to another statutory category that accomplishes the claimed method steps, and therefore do not qualify as a statutory process. For example, the steps of associating nodes, aligning nodes, and providing are not "tied to" a particular machine. These steps are considered mental steps, which can be performed by a human being. Specifically, a person can draw dependency trees having associated nodes on a particular computer application such as Microsoft Office or Notepad. Correspondences between nodes of the dependency trees can be indicated by drawing links. The alignment can be shown on the computer screen.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 1-41 and 55-68 are allowed over the prior art of record. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: the prior art of record fails to specifically disclose that aligning does not require beginning with either top or bottom node of the hierarchical parent/child structure of the dependency structures, and wherein the aligning is not based on top-down processing or bottom-up processing of nodes, and wherein an order of aligning nodes is based on linguistic relevance, beginning with aligning nodes having more linguistic relevance than aligning nodes having less linguistic relevance. Furthermore, it would have not been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention to modify the prior art of record in order to derive the claimed invention.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
